Gruppe VI F/3 was workshop of VI F. It repaired weapons, handled explosives and constructed special sabotage implements; within workshop were an "off limits" laboratory, a photo lab (training films, sabotage mission photos, pictures of foreign personalities and V-Leute); passport dept.

In 1943, SS H/Stuf (Major) WELLHOENER's suggestion of separate reference library containing information needed for sabotage missions resulted in creation of Forschungs Institut Grunewald (Grunewald Research Institute) under VI F/3 A. Though appointed Head, he was pushed into background by ruthless, energetic and ambitious H/Stuf FAULHABER, who gained control of V-Leute training and determination of types of sabotage to be utilized. The Institut had: depts dealing with general subjects, power, resources, traffic, commerce, radio and W/T, technical drawing; a reference library with translators; a photo lab; several civilian consultants. Though many sabotage projects were planned, few were carried out. Originally at Delbueckstr 6a, Berlin, the Institut moved between Dec '43-Jun '44 to Marianske Lazne, Czechoslovakia. In Apr '45 WELLHOENER furloughed staff until Jul '46 because of grave military situation; he destroyed most secret files but strong-boxed and buried in woods near Marianske Lazne one copy of every sabotage plan.

WELLHOENER intended to escape by car over Bavarian border; signed own discharge from Wehrmacht in his Soldbuch.
